ABSTRACT

The directory provides contact information on special education teacher preparation programs in the 50 states and the District of Columbia, and descriptive information on the levels and areas of preparation offered by most of these programs. Limited information is provided on programs which prepare special education supervisors or administrators and on programs for teachers of hearing impaired children. The information was collected through a nationwide survey of 698 special education teacher preparation programs identified by state departments of education. The directory is organized alphabetically by state, and within each state, alphabetically by college/university offering special education certification or degree program. For each state, information is coded according to specific level of program and area of preparation. In addition, entries typically include name, address and phone number of the program. (CL)

Preface

Purpose and Organization

This directory is designed to provide two types of information: contact information (addresses and telephone numbers) for all special education teacher preparation programs in the fifty states and the District of Columbia and descriptive information on the levels and areas of preparation offered by most of these programs. No information has been provided on programs which prepare adaptive physical educators, speech pathologists, or psychological/educational examiners. Additionally, only limited information is provided on programs which prepare special education supervisors or administrators and on programs which prepare teachers of hearing impaired children.

The directory is organized alphabetically by state, and within each state those colleges/universities which offer certification or degree programs in special education are listed in alphabetical order. For each state keys are provided on "Level of Program" and "Areas of Preparation." These keys differ from state to state and will enable the reader to decipher the coding systems used to describe the variety of training programs cited.

Development

The programmatic information contained in this directory was procured through a nationwide survey of 698 special education teacher preparation programs which were identified by state departments of education. The survey was conducted between Spring, 1982, and Spring, 1983, by members of the Small Special Education Programs Caucus of the Teacher Education Division of the Council for Exceptional Children. A survey coordinator was identified for each state and his/her efforts were supported by regional coordinators. The individuals who were responsible for gathering the information contained in this directory are:

Responses to the survey were received from 513 programs, and both contact and descriptive information are provided for these programs. For those programs which did not respond, limited contact information is provided and notations have been made that no information was provided.

I have tried to assure that complete and accurate information is presented on each program which responded to the survey; nevertheless, some misinformation is undoubtably present. The Teacher Education Division plans to update the directory every three years. As part of these revisions, inaccuracies will be corrected and the directory will become an increasingly reliable reference on special education teacher preparation programs.

Acknowledgements

On behalf of the Small Special Education Programs Caucus and the Teacher Education Division, I would like to offer a profound "thank you" to our previously cited colleagues whose efforts generated the information contained in this resource document. In addition to their contributions to the directory, they have demonstrated that professional collaboration on a national level can be successfully undertaken.

Sincere gratitude is also expressed to Mrs. Diana Simmons for her patience and persistence in typing the directory and to Larry Dickerson, Chairperson, Department of Rehabilitation and Special Education, University of Arkansas at Little Rock, for making available the financial resources and professional support needed to produce this document.
